MARKED-UP SPECIFICATION

Please replace the paragraph beginning at line 25 of page 28 as shown.

The data structure is typically implemented in software, for example the data dictionary may be held in a software repository. However, this is not a limitation on the invention and the data structure may, in appropriate cases, be implemented in hardware or in a hardware/software hybrid.

Please add the following paragraph at the end of page 28.

While the invention has been particularity shown and described above with reference to a preferred embodiment, the foregoing and other changes in form and detail may be made therein by one skilled in the art while still remaining within the spirit and scope of the invention which is to be defined only by the appended claims.
